Students complete 2019 Upward Bound Summer Work-Study program at the Palau Judiciary.

*(It is our duty at the Judiciary to inform the people what we do.
This Press Release is one way to achieve that responsibility.)*

The Palau Judiciary is pleased to announce the completion of the 2019 Upward Bound Work-Study program, for which 10 high school students took part in various projects at the Judiciary.

Frtiz R. Fritz Jr., Britney E. Isaac, and Blossom Dil Reng Richard participated in projects with the Clerk of Courts. Kreng K. Renguul worked with the Land Court and Dakarma R. Haruo with the Court of Common Pleas. Chelsea T. Kertou worked in the Probation Department, while Bhilanna L. Temol worked in the Law Library.

Myra Melilt Mayer, Irene Dilmalt Rdang, and Ember Fukuichi all worked in the Archive Department at the capitol building in Ngerulmud.

The students completed a variety of tasks, such as updating census records folders, updating civil and Court of Common Pleas decree binders, inventorying case files for transport to the capitol, inventorying and updating Palau Bar Association attorney files, and assisting in the organization of Land Court files. They also worked on cataloguing legal texts and recording summaries of Public Laws. Students assigned to the Archive Department sorted and categorized courtroom recordings, and prepared the recordings to be digitized for archiving purposes.

The students worked diligently for six weeks and were described by supervising staff as very dedicated and were able to accomplish all their tasks with minimal supervision.

The Judiciary is extremely grateful to have the opportunity to work with this dedicated group of students and looks forward to more collaboration with Upward Bound in the future.
